

licemen, hounded by the Law and Order League, yanked up before a judge—YOU can imagine the rest.

I wish I could imagine Arthur Burrage Farwell going to her down in the tenderloin, stretching forth his hand to grasp hers and saying: "Come, little sister. Come to my home. Come to church service and then come to my home as my sister. Society is ready to forget. Society drove you where you are. The LAW shall not kick you while you are down. The LAW of love, the LAW of God is greater than any of the laws of man, and the Chicago Law and Order League, whose members are YOUR brothers and YOUR sisters, takes you unto its bosom. The past is forgotten. Look up. Come."

That kind of a story would bring the tears to the eyes of millions, for all of us are human and full of human sympathy and love, if we only let it come out.

In the meantime I would like to know what happened to George when he grew up and became a lawyer. I hope he didn't become such a lover of law that he didn't have time to love humanity.

PARTICULAR

A young man was temporarily employed by a retail clothing house during a sale of women's apparel.

He was approached by a customer at the rush hour, who asked to be shown a medium-priced skirt to wear around the house.

"All right," said the young hopeful. "What's the size of the house?"—The Delineator.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN OF MAYOR OF N. Y. INDICTED

New York, April 21.—Michael P. Mahoney, who shot Corporation Counsel Frank Polk in an attempt to assassinate Mayor Mitchell, was indicted by the grand jury on charge of attempting murder in the first degree. He will plead tomorrow before Judge Mulqueen.

This is the third time that the charge "attempted first degree murder" has been made against a prisoner. The first was against Czolgosz, Pres. McKinley's murderer, and who was responsible for the passage of a law defining the crime. The second similar charge was against Gallagher, who attempted to kill the late Mayor Gaynor.
